

The Chronicle of Higher Education
Career Network

Links

SEARCH THE SITE

SITE MAP

Sections

Features

The Chronicle in print

Services

General Links About Academic Jobs

Academic Careers Online

Job listings for teachers and administrators at K-12 and higher-education institutions. Users may sign up for e-mail notification of new job listings. There's also a résumé bank.

<http://www.academiccareers.com/>

American Association of Community Colleges Careerline

This site includes administrative and faculty job listings at two-year institutions. Go to the main page and select Careerline. The job listings are updated every two weeks.

<http://www.aacc.nche.edu>

CCollegeJobs.com

This site, created by Schindler and Associates Inc., lists job vacancies for faculty members and administrators at community colleges. Job listings may be searched by discipline, institution type, location, and salary range. Job seekers must register in order to use the site, but registration is free. Users may also sign up to receive an electronic newsletter with information about employment trends and advice for job seekers. Registered members may post their résumés on the site free.

<http://www.CCollegeJobs.com/>

ExecSearches.com

This site was created to help recruiters and employers in non-profit and public-sector institutions find qualified candidates. It lists jobs for senior-level administrators in a variety of areas (including finance, fund raising, housing, human resources, information technology, legal affairs, and public relations) at universities, associations, non-profit organizations, and government agencies. Many of the vacancies are posted by recruiters. The listings may be searched by job description, industry, region, and key word. Users may register to receive e-mail notification of new job listings.

<http://www.execsearches.com/exec/>

H-Net Job Guide

This is a weekly listing of job opportunities and fellowships in history, the humanities, and the social sciences -- including opportunities ranging from American history, African and Middle Eastern history, American studies, and area studies to anthropology, archaeology, English, and art history. A new job guide is posted every Monday. The site is supported by Michigan State University and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

<http://www.matrix.msu.edu/jobs/>

HigherEdJobs.com

Lists jobs at hundreds of colleges and universities across the country. The listings, which are updated daily, may be searched by category, institution, keyword, or state. Users may register to receive e-mail notification of new job listings and post their CV's/résumés on the site.

(UPDATED LISTING)

<http://www.higheredJobs.com/>

International Academic Job Market

Campus Review, a weekly Australian newspaper about higher education, has listings of academic job opportunities in Asia, Australia, and New Zealand. Only paid subscribers may view the job ads.

<http://www.camrev.com.au/>

jobs.ac.uk

This site, created by the Universities Advertising Group, a consortium of 37 universities in Great Britain, features academic and nonacademic job listings at universities, schools, and companies in Great Britain and around the world. There's also a CV service and links to other useful sites.

(NEW LISTING)

<http://www.jobs.ac.uk>

Landing an Academic Job

A guide to applying and interviewing for an academic job, by the chairman of mechanical and industrial engineering at the University of Illinois.

http://quattro.me.uiuc.edu/~jon/ACAJOB/Latex2e/academic_job/academic_job.html

N.A.F.G. Job-List

The Job-List of the National Adjunct Faculty Guild features job openings for adjunct, part-time, full-time temporary, and visiting professors from the adjunct advocate magazine. Full-time non-temporary positions, for which a master's is the acceptable terminal degree, are also listed. The Job-List is updated every two weeks between August 25 and July 1. The N.A.F.G.'s Web site also has useful resources and links for academic-job seekers.

<http://adjunctadvocate.com>

Ph.Ds.Org.: Science, Math, and Engineering Career Site

A comprehensive site created by Geoff Davis, a former Dartmouth College professor, and supported by a grant from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation. It features listings for jobs both in and out of academe, salary information, advice about graduate school, C.V.'s, and interviewing, background articles about the sciences, resource lists, and on-line discussions. One feature of the site allows users to create their own rankings of graduate programs, using information provided by the National Research Council.

<http://www.phds.org/>

Council for Christian Colleges and Universities

The council's job center lists faculty and administrative job opportunities in a variety of fields at member and affiliate institutions.

(UPDATED LISTING)

<http://www.cccu.org/jobs/>

Postdoc Network

Created by Science's NextWave, and financed by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, this site has articles on a variety of issues of relevance to postdoctoral scholars -- such as status, salary, benefits, career needs, etc. It also has a database of postdoctoral organizations, a calendar of postdoctoral events, and links to other useful resources.

<http://nextwave.sciencemag.org/feature/postdocnetwork.shtml>

Post-Docs.com

This site, which had its debut in February 2000, lists postdoctoral positions at universities and other research institutions, a résumé bank, and links to online resources for postdocs. The listings are updated daily, and users may sign up to receive free e-mail notification of new job listings. A database of scholarships and fellowships for graduate students and postdocs is also under construction.

<http://www.post-docs.com/>

Preparing Future Faculty

A collaborative effort of the Association of American Colleges and Universities and the Council of Graduate Schools, this program attempts to give graduate students a fuller sense of the academic profession. This site offers a general overview of the project's activities. One section includes a list of job-market related links.

<http://www.preparing-faculty.org/>

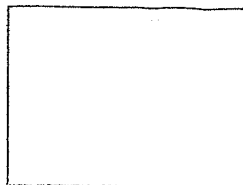

Re-envisioning the Ph.D.

This collection of useful resources for doctoral students and postdoctoral fellows features links to career-related publications, job openings, funding and professional-development opportunities, and information about career fairs.

(NEW LISTING)

<http://www.grad.washington.edu/envision/>

Copyright © 2001 by The Chronicle of Higher Education

The Chronicle of Higher Education
Career Network

Links

SEARCH THE SITE

SITE MAP

General Links About Academic Jobs

Academic Careers Online

Job listings for teachers and administrators at K-12 and higher-education institutions. Users may sign up for e-mail notification of new job listings. There's also a résumé bank.

<http://www.academiccareers.com/>

American Association of Community Colleges Careerline

This site includes administrative and faculty job listings at two-year institutions. Go to the main page and select Careerline. The job listings are updated every two weeks.

<http://www.aacc.nche.edu>

CCollegeJobs.com

This site, created by Schindler and Associates Inc., lists job vacancies for faculty members and administrators at community colleges. Job listings may be searched by discipline, institution type, location, and salary range. Job seekers must register in order to use the site, but registration is free. Users may also sign up to receive an electronic newsletter with information about employment trends and advice for job seekers. Registered members may post their résumés on the site free.

<http://www.CCollegeJobs.com/>

ExecSearches.com

This site was created to help recruiters and employers in non-profit and public-sector institutions find qualified candidates. It lists jobs for senior-level administrators in a variety of areas (including finance, fund raising, housing, human resources, information technology, legal affairs, and public relations) at universities, associations, non-profit organizations, and government agencies. Many of the vacancies are posted by recruiters. The listings may be searched by job description, industry, region, and key word. Users may register to receive e-mail notification of new job listings.

<http://www.execsearches.com/exec/>

H-Net Job Guide

This is a weekly listing of job opportunities and fellowships in history, the humanities, and the social sciences -- including opportunities ranging from American history, African and Middle Eastern history, American studies, and area studies to anthropology, archaeology, English, and art history. A new job guide is posted every Monday. The site is supported by Michigan State University and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

<http://www.matrix.msu.edu/jobs/>

Sections

Features

The Chronicle Online

Searches

<http://www.cccu.org/jobs/>

Postdoc Network

Created by Science's NextWave, and financed by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, this site has articles on a variety of issues of relevance to postdoctoral scholars -- such as status, salary, benefits, career needs, etc. It also has a database of postdoctoral organizations, a calendar of postdoctoral events, and links to other useful resources.

<http://nextwave.sciencemag.org/feature/postdocnetwork.shtml>

Post-Docs.com

This site, which had its debut in February 2000, lists postdoctoral positions at universities and other research institutions, a résumé bank, and links to online resources for postdocs. The listings are updated daily, and users may sign up to receive free e-mail notification of new job listings. A database of scholarships and fellowships for graduate students and postdocs is also under construction.

<http://www.post-docs.com/>

Preparing Future Faculty

A collaborative effort of the Association of American Colleges and Universities and the Council of Graduate Schools, this program attempts to give graduate students a fuller sense of the academic profession. This site offers a general overview of the project's activities. One section includes a list of job-market related links.

<http://www.preparing-faculty.org/>

Re-envisioning the Ph.D.

This collection of useful resources for doctoral students and postdoctoral fellows features links to career-related publications, job openings, funding and professional-development opportunities, and information about career fairs.

(NEW LISTING)

<http://www.grad.washington.edu/envision/>

Copyright © 2001 by The Chronicle of Higher Education