

The December 2013 BRC Blast of the month

Thursday, December 19, 2013 is the day to celebrate the holidays together at UCOP. Festivities at the Franklin Building begin with refreshments in Lobby 1 Conference Room and 605 Kaiser from 8 to 9 am and continuing with more refreshments and entertainment on three floors from 2 to 3:30 pm. Events will be accompanied by the UCOP Singers and other musical entertainment.

In light of the above, this is a gentle reminder that the BRC may ask for additional information and/or approvals for department meetings and events that are scheduled in December and January that may appear to be counter to the message below:

The following went out from Nathan Brostrom 11/12/13:

“This does not preclude departments from holding their own individual (holiday) events But it is important to note that these – as well as floor decorations – must be paid for with personal funds and will not be reimbursed by the University.”

Happy Holidays from the BRC!
