

Inette Dishler

Inette Dishler, M.S., is a Principal Learning Consultant in Human Resources at UC Berkeley. She has 20 years of professional experience in training and development and is currently managing the campus Leadership Development Program (LDP) for high-performing, high-potential staff. She also develops and teaches supervisory, management, and leadership classes, as well as consults to campus leaders and departments. She has been at UCB for 7 years. She received her B.S. in Speech Communication from Illinois State University and her Master's degree is in Higher Education Administration from Florida State University.