

Vince Stewart

Vince Stewart is currently the Associate Director for Institutional Relations in the UC Office of State Governmental Relations in Sacramento, where he is responsible for the University's system-wide advocacy efforts and building the network of UC's third-party advocates. Prior to that, he was the Deputy Secretary for Higher Education and Workforce Development in the Governor's Office of the Secretary for Education. Before joining the Governor's office, Vince was the Director of Federal Government Relations for UC Davis, where he managed the campus' federal advocacy efforts. Prior to his tenure with Davis, Vince was a Legislative Director with the UC Office of State Governmental Relations. In addition to his higher education experience, Vince was an advocate for the California School Boards Association at the state and federal levels. Vince is a graduate of UC Davis with a degree in Political Science and Economics.