Dear Governor Brown and Senator Leno:

Pursuant Section 99200 of the Education Code, enclosed is the University of California's report to the Governor and the Legislature on the California Subject Matter Project for Academic Years 2011-2015.

If you have any questions regarding this report, Associate Vice President Debora Obley would be pleased to speak with you. She can be reached by telephone at (510) 987-9112, or by e-mail at Debora.Obley@ucop.edu.

Yours very truly,

Janet Napolitano
President

California Subject Matter Project
Report to the Legislature

Legislative Request

This report complies with Sections 99200-99206 of the Education Code – amended in 2012 by Senate Bill No. 612, Chapter 632 – which require the California Subject Matter Project (CSMP) Concurrence Committee to provide a final report on the subject matter projects to the Governor and to the appropriate policy and fiscal committees of the Legislature on or before January 1, 2016. Per the statute, this report covers a four-year period (2011-15) and provides specific information about CSMP, namely:

- (A) The number, and level of experience, of participants in each subject matter project.
- (B) The total amount of funds expended, on an annual basis, for each subject matter project.
- (C) An explanation of the type of professional development activities offered pursuant to each subject matter project, including the extent to which teachers were provided professional development focused on delivering career-oriented, integrated academic and technical content.
- (D) A list including the name and location of each school affiliated with a subject matter project.<sup>1</sup>

The Concurrence Committee is comprised of individuals affiliated with leadership, management, or instruction, in education or education policy entities and are selected as follows:

- (1) One representative selected by the Regents of the University of California.
- (2) One representative selected by the Board of Trustees of the California State University.
- (3) One representative selected by the State Board of Education, who has significant experience with direct classroom instruction.
- (4) One representative selected by the Governor.
- (5) One representative selected by the Superintendent of Public Instruction.
- (6) One representative selected by the Commission on Teacher Credentialing.
- (7) One representative selected by the Curriculum Development and Supplemental Materials Commission.<sup>2</sup>
- (8) One representative of the California Community Colleges selected by the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges.
- (9) One representative of an independent postsecondary institution selected by the Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities.<sup>3</sup>

UCOP Response

The University of California, with the approval of the Concurrence Committee, has statutory responsibility to establish, administer, and maintain a network of professional development projects. These projects are designed to create opportunities for researchers, higher education faculty, and elementary and secondary school faculty to collaboratively identify exemplary teaching practices; examine and develop research on learning, knowledge, and educational materials; and provide professional learning support for teachers to develop and enhance content knowledge and pedagogical skills.

Consistent with the Education Code, which requires a four-year report, the Concurrence Committee has approved this report on the Arts, History-Social Science, International Studies<sup>4</sup>, Mathematics, Physical Education-Health, Reading and Literature, Science, World Language, and Writing projects. The report covers July 1, 2011 through June 30, 2015 and provides for each subject matter project the experience of participants, funds expended, professional development activities offered, and affiliated schools.

Number and Level of Experience of Participants

From 2011-2015, CSMP served 102,417 distinct participants.<sup>5</sup> Table 1 provides the number of distinct participants for each subject matter project.

Project	Number
Arts	8,220
History-Social Science	11,443
International Studies	5,021
Math	26,767
Physical Education-Health	1,354
Reading and Literature	15,442
Science	11,261
World Language	5,125
Writing	31,288

Source: CSMP Information System, 2015

Overall, the projects served teachers at all stages of their careers, from novice teachers with 1-5 years of experience (23% of total participants) to veteran teachers with 10 or more years of experience (56%).<sup>6</sup>

<sup>5</sup> The figures in Table 1 sum to 115,921 because some individuals participated in programs conducted by more than one of the nine projects.

<sup>6</sup> Participant experience rates are largely due to CSMP’s focus on developing teacher leadership as well as budget cuts in recent years, which disproportionately decreased the number of novice teachers.

Source: CSMP Information System, 2015

Additionally, a major focus of the subject matter projects is to foster the development of teacher leaders. Teacher leaders are individuals who are skilled in a discipline with requisite pedagogical skills, and who share their expertise with other teachers at all levels of experience through CSMP professional development programs.

Funds Expended

There is one statewide office and multiple sites for each of the subject areas. Table 2 shows, by subject area, a four-year summary of expenditures of State funds provided through annual Budget Acts and federal No Child Left Behind (NCLB) funds.<sup>7</sup> Expenditures covered program and operational costs. The number of sites per subject area varied from 4 to 19, and this is the primary reason for funding allocation differences.

Professional Development Activities Offered

Through high-quality, long-term professional development activities, CSMP demonstrates an ongoing commitment to deepening teacher content knowledge, improving teachers' pedagogical skills in the content areas, and developing teacher leaders across the state. Dedicated to its mission of serving the state's neediest schools, CSMP focuses on improving the teaching of English learners and low-literacy students. CSMP also develops networks of teacher learning communities that investigate current research relevant to teachers' subject areas.

In accordance with the California Education Code, Section 99200 (a), each subject matter project aims to:

- (1) Develop and enhance teachers' subject matter and content knowledge in the subject matter areas specified in Education Code Section 99201.
- (2) Develop and enhance teachers' instructional strategies to improve pupil learning and academic performance as measured against State Board of Education standards adopted pursuant to Education Code

<sup>7</sup> This information does not include other funding sites may receive from district contracts or other one-time sources.

<sup>8</sup> In 2012-13, a portion of NCLB funding for CSMP was cut.

Section 60605 and 60605.8 and, where applicable, to standards adopted pursuant to Section 60811 and any subsequently adopted standards.

(3) Provide teachers with instructional strategies for working with English learners.

(4) Provide teachers with instructional strategies for delivering career-oriented, integrated academic and technical content in a manner that is linked to high priority industry sectors identified in the California career technical education model curriculum standards as adopted by the State Board of Education. The Concurrence Committee, in consultation with the appropriate state entities, industry leaders, representatives of organized labor, educators, and other parties, shall determine the priority of industry sectors.

(5) Provide teachers with access to and opportunity to examine current research that is demonstrably linked to improved pupil learning and achievement as measured by performance levels on state tests administered pursuant to Section 60605, or any successor assessment system, or on English language development assessments developed, pursuant to Chapter 7 (commencing with Section 60810) of Part 33 of Division 4 of Title 2, or any successor assessments, for English language learners.

(6) Maintain subject-specific professional communities that create and encourage ongoing opportunities for teacher collaboration, learning, and research.

(7) Develop and deploy as teacher leaders, teachers with demonstrated levels of expertise in the classroom and certifiable levels of content knowledge.

(8) Provide teachers with instructional strategies for ongoing collaboration on the delivery of career-oriented, integrated academic and technical content.

The rest of this section provides a brief description for each of the subject matter projects. Descriptions contain key project components as well as examples of professional development programs developed by each project. Please note that CSMP programs are aligned with state-adopted standards and frameworks, including: Common Core State Standards (CCSS), English Language Development (ELD) standards, Next Generation Science Standards, Career Technical Education (CTE) standards, state content standards and frameworks, and other professional standards.

The California Arts Project (TCAP) is a statewide professional development network that serves single subject, multiple subject, and career technical education teachers from preschool through university in dance, music, theatre and visual arts. An education in the arts equips students with the skills and knowledge needed for innovation, creative thinking, and problem solving – thereby preparing them for school and for the workforce, particularly for careers in the arts, media, and entertainment. Since these skills and knowledge are so important, TCAP has a central mission to improve the teaching and learning of the arts. Though the format and specific content can vary, TCAP programs have common elements:

- Increasing arts teachers' academic content knowledge and pedagogical skills by examining theory, research, and practice, and by engaging in the disciplines.
- Strengthening teachers' knowledge of formative and summative assessments and standards based instructional design, through activities such as calibrating students' work and identifying students' needs for differentiated instruction.
- Linking university and K-12 educators within communities of practice to design comprehensive arts curricula and partner in educational research, assessment, and implementation.
- Supporting teachers' abilities in preparing students to be college and career ready.
- Enhancing the professional role of classroom teachers by equipping them for leadership in their schools, districts, communities, and/or regional arts projects.

All TCAP programs are aligned with and support the California Visual and Performing Arts Content Standards and Common Core Content Literacy in the Technical Subjects, and specific programs support the CTE Model Curriculum Standards for Arts, Media, and Entertainment. TCAP programs support the development of academic literacy within the arts for all learners including English Language Learners.

Examples of programs include: Collaborative Design Institute; Pathways to Understanding the Arts Disciplines; Student Work Online 2.0; Arts Education Assessment Tool; Nexus of Visual and Performing Arts, and Arts, Media, and Entertainment Education Workshops.

The California History-Social Science Project (CHSSP) is a K-16 collaborative of historians, teachers, and affiliated scholars dedicated to the pursuit of educational excellence in history and social science. Though the format of professional development activities offered and specific content can vary, each CHSSP program has common elements:

- Scholars lecture and lead discussions to increase teachers' content knowledge and engage teachers in investigating significant questions and debates in history, geography, government, or economics.
- Scholars and CHSSP teacher leaders address pedagogy by providing lesson models, guiding teachers through discipline-specific thinking and inquiry, and leading group discussions and exercises.
- Teachers apply what they have learned by creating standards-based lessons designed to engage students in historical thinking and inquiry.

Examples of programs include: History Blueprint; Teaching American History; Teaching World History; Building Academic Literacy through History; Teaching Geography, Government, or Economics.

The California International Studies Project (CISP) leaders provide standards-based professional development in history and international studies to prepare students to be informed, active citizens who live and work in a world where conditions, people, and distant events may have a critical impact on their own and others' lives. Though the format and specific content can vary, CISP programs have common elements:

- Participants develop insight into the connections among peoples, ideas, and events, and view global issues from a range of perspectives, using analytic skills and primary source documents.
- University and K-12 presenters model effective instructional strategies to help students develop academic language and analytic skills, along with content knowledge.
- Participants develop an understanding of the richness and variety of the human community, and learn to “walk in someone else’s shoes.”

Examples of programs include: World and U.S. History; World Culture; Regional Studies; Equity & Access Institutes; Academic Language Development.

The California Mathematics Project (CMP) offers a variety of mathematics programs designed specifically to meet the needs of teachers, schools, and/or districts and aligned with the California Version of the Common Core State Standards in Mathematics (CaCCSS-M). CMP sponsors intensive professional development institutes, academic year programs, academic year support, and other programs. The content and focus of these programs are designed in collaboration with schools, districts, and teachers in response to identified needs. Programs target specific teacher groups such as new teachers, teachers from hard-to-staff schools, teachers in urban or rural settings, teachers in a specific grade span, and teachers seeking certification. Though the format and specific content can vary, CMP programs have common elements:

- Strategies to improve teaching of mathematics tasks that have high cognitive demand.
- Student empowerment as a goal, by developing mathematical reasoning through gathering data, analyzing evidence, and building arguments to support hypotheses.
- Strategies for working with English learners.
- Support for developing teacher leadership and collaboration.

Programs cover all five strands of mathematical proficiency: (1) conceptual understanding, (2) procedural fluency, (3) strategic competence, (4) adaptive reasoning, and (5) productive disposition. Three new content areas have been added for teachers: (1) fractions from a number line approach, (2) transformational geometry (especially for middle school), and (3) mathematical modeling. In addition, a key component of the CaCCSS-M is the Standards for Mathematical Practice. CMP sponsored several task forces representing not only CMP but also the California Department of Education, the California Mathematics Council, the Curriculum Instruction and Steering Committee, and the California Association of Mathematics Teacher Educators.

Examples of programs include: Common Core institutes; Leadership institutes; District-specific in-services; Saturday Series workshops that convene teachers weekly.

The California Physical Education-Health Project (CPE-HP) provides physical education and health teachers the resources to design and deliver standards-based instruction to all students. CPE-HP aims to give students the chance to develop skills, knowledge, and attitudes that will lead to physically active lifestyles and positive health behaviors. Though the format and specific content can vary, CPE-HP programs have common elements:

- Teacher leadership opportunities that include research-based best practice.
- Support for curriculum change, to include formative assessment tools for supporting all students' learning and literacy development.
- Professional communities of physical education and health teachers.
- Equity and access for underserved students in high-priority schools, including English learners.
- District- and school-wide health education strategies to encourage children and youth to become informed individuals, committed to healthy, active living.
- Cultivation and expansion of partnerships with families, communities, and other educational groups.
- Development of health literacy as a key to cultivating healthy adults.

Examples of programs include: Implementation of the Common Core State Standards in Physical Education; Building Cutting-Edge Physical Education Instructional Programs; Bullying Prevention Summits; Learning to Move, Moving to Learn.

The California Reading and Literature Project (CRLP) programs include Pre-K-12 "signature" programs that are offered at all sites, as well as locally designed programs that are developed to accommodate the diverse needs of a particular region. These programs are offered throughout the academic year. Though the format and specific content can vary, CRLP programs have common elements:

- Develop teachers' content knowledge and expand their teaching strategies to support the implementation of CCSS and ELD standards.
- Focus on the development of academic language for all students, particularly for English Language Learners.
- Link universities with schools and districts in collaborative partnerships to create a cadre of expert teacher leaders and university scholars to help translate educational policies into sound classroom practices.
- Engage teachers and school administrators in the investigation of critical questions of practice through action research.

Examples of programs include: Results Academic Language and Literacy Instruction Spanish-to-English Transferability; Content Area Language and Literacy for Academic Success in Middle and High School; A Developmental English Language Assessment.

The California Science Project (CSP) provides high quality, standards-based professional development in science to ensure that every student achieves the highest standards of academic performance. Though the format and specific content can vary, CSP programs have common elements:

- Academic faculty focus on and present specific content topics in earth, biological, or physical sciences to strengthen teachers' content knowledge, develop a deep conceptual understanding, and increase awareness of new content and expectations.
- University and K-12 presenters model effective instructional strategies while teaching the content. Teachers become more effective educators by learning and incorporating new pedagogy and new scientific content into their teaching.

Examples of programs include: Science Content Institutes (focus on different topics in earth, biological, or physical sciences); Literacy in the Science Classroom programs (focus on text-based science materials, argumentation, and development of claims based on evidence through writing and other forms of communication); English Learners in the Science Classroom programs (focus on multiple approaches and strategies that help science teachers differentiate instruction for English learners).

The California World Language Project (CWLP) sponsors professional development programs aligned with the state-adopted World Language Content Standards, including their alignment with the CCSS, Foreign Language framework and the ELD standards in order to deepen teachers' content knowledge, strengthen and expand language programs, and prepare participants to effectively use and teach language and cultural content at every level of California's educational system. CWLP supports teachers to prepare students to be college, career, and world ready and able to successfully interact and compete in our trans-global society. Program participants design and implement instruction that enables students to become informed global citizens who can communicate effectively across languages and cultures in order to explore problems and issues rooted in perspectives different from their own. Though the format and specific content can vary, CWLP programs have common elements:

- Improving world language and cultural education by strengthening teachers' content knowledge and pedagogical skills specific to the teaching of performance-based language instruction.
- Providing teacher professional development that helps prepare students to understand and interpret oral language and written texts, share information and concepts across language and cultural borders in meaningful ways, and develop literacy skills both in English and the target language.

- Supporting participants in preparing students, including English Learners, to communicate effectively in culturally appropriate ways in their native and acquired languages within our dynamic and increasingly diverse society.
- Strengthening and expanding K-16 world language and cultural programs that reflect diverse ideas and perspectives and provide access and equity in learning for all students.
- Engaging university and K-12 world language educators in professional learning networks that promote collaborative leadership and research-based classroom practices.
- Offering opportunities for world language educators to examine effective teaching and performance-based assessment practices and employ results for continuous program improvement.

Examples of programs include: Language and grade-level specific standards-aligned institutes, seminars and workshops (with special sessions for teachers of heritage/native speakers and English learners and those who teach in immersion and dual-immersion schools); Workshops focused on technology-mediated learning and long distance instruction; Programs focused on proficiency-oriented assessment (to assess students' proficiency in all language domains as well as their cultural-content competency).

The California Writing Project (CWP) is a statewide professional development network that serves teachers of writing at all grade levels, preschool through university, and in all subjects. Because writing is the key to success in the school and university, as well as in the community and workplace, CWP has a central mission – to improve student writing and learning by improving the teaching of writing. Though the format and specific content can vary, CWP programs have common elements:

- Improving student writing and literacy outcomes by strengthening teachers' practices.
- Unpacking the CCSS for content, teaching, and assessment understanding.
- Connecting the ELD standards to the CCSS to support access, rigor, and differentiation for English Language Learners.
- Increasing teacher knowledge about the teaching of writing by providing frequent and sustained opportunities for teachers to write and to systematically examine theory, research, and practice.
- Increasing teachers' knowledge of formative and summative writing assessments to inform their instruction and identify the different levels of support that their students require.
- Linking university and K-12 educators in informed communities of practice to design and develop comprehensive writing programs and partner in educational research, assessment, implementation, and reform.
- Enhancing the professional role of classroom teachers and equipping them for leadership in their schools, districts, communities, or local writing projects.

Examples of programs include: Improving Students' Analytical Writing; Improving the Writing of English Learners and Migrant Education Students; Teaching Writing in a Digital Age; Primary Writes: Engaging Writers, Exceeding Standards.

Professional Development Program Outcomes

CSMP gives educators a variety of professional learning opportunities designed by K-12 teachers and university faculty – including workshops, leadership institutes and in-service programs. With the adoption of new standards and assessments, CSMP provides ongoing support to educators as they build on their content knowledge and instructional strategies to help students meet these rigorous academic standards. Expert site directors, teacher leaders, and other professional development providers facilitate the school-level transition to new standards and assessments, as well as the instructional strategies that teachers must use to address them.

CSMP is lauded as a model for other states throughout the nation “as a means of supporting ongoing professional development in the content areas for growing networks of teachers” (Task Force on Educator Excellence, 2012, p. 9). Participants consistently rate CSMP professional development more highly than other professional development they have received, and the project’s investment in intensive and in-depth contact with teachers over time has resulted in changes in teacher practice and improvements to student outcomes in a deep and sustained way (SRI, 2013, 2012, 2011a, 2011b, 2009). Other research (Yoon, et al., 2007) also confirms that this type of professional development has a positive impact on student achievement.

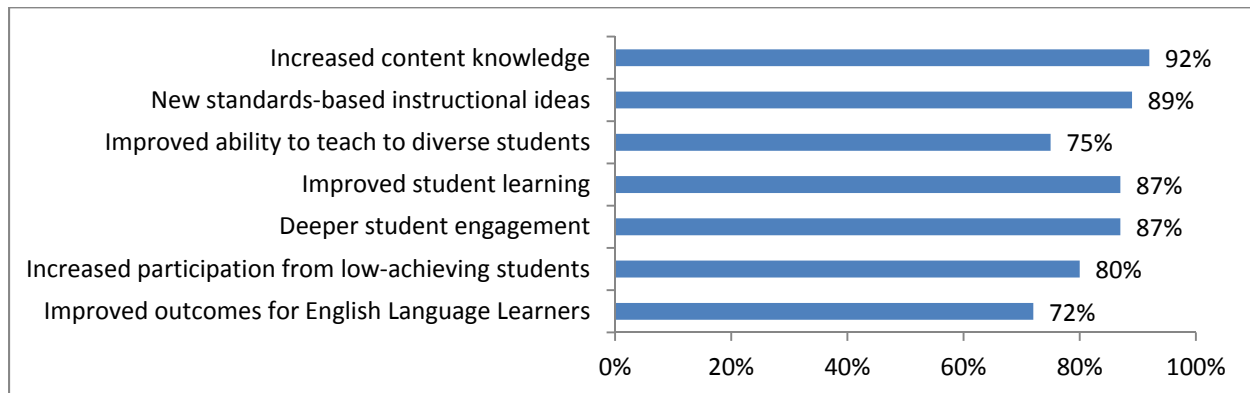

CSMP participants improve and enrich their teaching of specific subjects through long-term, intensive professional development (defined as 14 hours or more), that has been shown to have the greatest impact on student achievement (Yoon, et al., 2007). From 2011-2015, CSMP provided a total of 135,834 contact hours through 8,331 professional development programs. Table 3 includes professional development program contact hours, number of programs offered, and average number of hours per program, by subject matter project.

Project	Number of Contact Hours for Participants	Number of Programs	Average Hours per Program

In a teacher survey conducted by SRI International in 2010, teachers reported (Figure 2) that their participation in CSMP increased their content knowledge (92%), provided them with new standards-based instructional ideas (89%), and improved their ability to teach to diverse students (75%). In addition, participants reported that CSMP professional development would help to improve their students' learning (87%), deepen students' engagement (87%), increase the participation of low-achieving students (80%), and contribute to improved outcomes for English Language Learners (72%).<sup>9</sup>

Source: SRI International, Evaluation of the California Subject Matter Project, CSMP Pilot Survey 2010-11

These data were further corroborated by a CSMP-conducted participant survey administered in 2014, in which 85% of respondents rated the quality of CSMP professional development as being “significantly better” (69%) or “somewhat better” (16%) than other professional development activities in which they had participated.<sup>10</sup>

Affiliated Schools

From 2011-2015, CSMP served teachers from 8,215 unique K-12 schools. The service regions extended as far north as Del Norte County and as far south as Imperial County, and served teachers in virtually all 58 California counties. The top ten cities with the most schools served were Los Angeles, San Diego, Sacramento, San Jose, San Francisco, Oakland, Fresno, Bakersfield, Stockton, and Santa Ana, in that order. Table 4 provides the number of schools served by the top ten cities with the most schools served.

City	Number of Schools Served
Los Angeles	453
San Diego	273
Sacramento	226
San Jose	190
San Francisco	164
Oakland	121
Fresno	109
Bakersfield	92
Stockton	89
Santa Ana	87

Many of the schools were served by multiple subject area projects. The Writing Project and the Mathematics Project served the most schools, followed by the Science Project. Table 5 provides the number of schools served by each subject matter project.

Project	Number of Schools Served
Arts	1,842
History Social-Science	2,162
International Studies	1,021

Physical Education-Health	472
Reading and Literature	1,737
Science	2,627
World Language	1,147
Writing	3,624

In addition, from 2011-15, 48% of schools that CSMP served were designated “low-performing” (as defined by the state’s Academic Performance Index; API 1-5).

A list that compiles the name and location of each school affiliated with the Arts, History-Social Science, International Studies, Mathematics, Physical Education-Health, Reading and Literature, Science, World Language, and Writing projects is provided in Appendix B.
