<sup>1</sup>The University cannot predict the loans, interest rates, and fees for which a student may qualify as lenders have different criteria for both loan eligibility and loan rates. However, students will typically qualify for more attractive loan rates if applying with a creditworthy co-signer.

<sup>2</sup>The University of California solicited proposals and evaluated numerous lenders and the private loan products they offer. The evaluation included, but was not limited to, borrower loan costs, borrower benefits, lender stability, loan servicing, online services and tools, as well as customer service. The lenders selected through this evaluation process are listed above, in the order in which they were ranked by the University.

<sup>3</sup>Deferring payments while in school and during the grace period will increase the overall loan costs. Unpaid interest that accrues while in school and in the grace period will be capitalized (i.e., added to the loan amount) at repayment.

<sup>4</sup>This benefit typically remains available during active repayment for as long as the borrower's monthly payment is successfully deducted from the borrower's account.

NOTE: Additional conditions may apply, and lenders may change loan benefits without notice. Borrowers should rely solely on the information each lender provides regarding loan terms, interest rates, and benefits and are encouraged to seek details about them. There are significant differences in lender policies.
