Training

Campus Mental Health Trainings by Counseling and Psychological Services (CPS)

UC Berkeley offers several opportunities for Faculty/Staff, Graduate Teaching/Research Assistants, student groups, academic departments and administrative units for training related to student mental health and wellness. The goal of this outreach is to demystify counseling, educate the campus community on mental health issues and to help others know our counselors. CPS is able to tailor all trainings for your specific group and time constraints.

TRAININGS OFFERED

Demystifying CPS
Learn more about what CPS offers and how to use services. This training will help the campus understand the support services such as individual, group and career counseling as well as how to receive phone consultation when CPS is closed.

Gatekeeper Training
This training (for faculty/staff and GSIs) focuses on understanding the basics of the Gold Folder, a resource for assisting students in distress. Training will address the various ways that undergraduate and graduate students can exhibit distress and ways to connect students to campus resources. There will be a discussion of how to refer students to resources, how to better communicate with students who are reluctant to seek services and how to consult with campus professionals should you have questions.

QPR — Question, Persuade, Refer
Through lecture, exercises and discussion, learn how to effectively interact with an individual who may be thinking about suicide and identify obstacles that interfere with someone getting help.

Stress-Management and Wellness in a Diverse World
This training will help one think through the common stress of being an undergraduate or graduate student at UCB. The training will address triggers, symptoms and coping strategies.
CONTACT

Although staffing for outreach can be limited at peak times, we do our best to accommodate all requests. Contact UC Berkeley’s Counseling and Psychological Services (CPS) at 510-642-9494 or visit:

Education

The Center for Teaching and Learning (CTL)

“Great teachers do not all have a single style — but they do all have a singular goal: to reach students in ways that have deep and lasting influence on how they think and act throughout their lives and careers.”

—Anonymous

The Center for Teaching and Learning (CTL) at UC Berkeley supports, enhances and promotes teaching and learning at Berkeley. Its services include consultation and program facilitation on all aspects of teaching, as well as administration of teaching-related awards, fellowships and grants for the 1,582 full-time and 500 part-time faculty members across more than 130 academic departments and more than 80 interdisciplinary research units. CTL works closely with and provides support for the Committee on Teaching of the Berkeley Division of the Academic Senate, the Colleges and Schools, as well as other academic partners across the campus who support the instructional mission.
Resources on the CTL website include:

- Services and Programs
- Fellowships and Grants
- Teaching Resources
- Assessment and Evaluation
- Campus Policies
- Distinguished Teaching Awards

Contact the Center for Teaching and Learning (CTL) at 510-642-2360 or via email at teaching@berkeley.edu. Visit http://teaching.berkeley.edu/ to learn more.
