Training

UCLA Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS)

UCLA offers trainings for Faculty/Staff & Graduate Teaching/Research Assistants related to mental health and wellness. These trainings are designed to improve your ability to recognize and respond to students in need and to promote faculty, staff and student wellness and success. The following trainings are offered regularly throughout the year or can be requested by your department.

QPR Suicide Prevention Gatekeeper Certification

This workshop offers training and practice in suicide prevention skills, utilizing the nationally recognized QPR (“Question, Persuade and Refer”) Suicide Prevention Gatekeeper approach. The training teaches participants three simple steps that anyone can learn that can help save a life from suicide. Just like CPR, QPR is an emergency response to someone in crisis and can save lives. The Gatekeeper training includes:

- Helping participants to identify risk and protective factors for suicide;
- Methods to intervene with individuals at risk for suicide;
- Practice in the QPR skills of questioning, persuading and referring suicidal individuals;
- Information on how to contribute to the suicide prevention Gatekeeper safety net before, during and after a crisis.

Mental Health First Aid

Mental Health First Aid is an internationally recognized certificate training on providing help to a person developing a mental health problem or experiencing a mental health crisis. This 8-hour interactive training provides a comprehensive introduction to risk factors and warning signs to a spectrum of mental health problems and crises, notably depression, anxiety, substance misuse and psychosis. Those who take the course learn a 5-step action plan encompassing the skills, resources and knowledge to help an individual in crisis connect with appropriate professional, peer, social and self-help care. The training teaches participants:

- How to recognize signs of mental health problems
- How to offer and provide initial help
- How to guide a person toward appropriate treatments and other supportive help

Red Folder Training: Responding to Distressed and Distressing Students

Faculty and staff play a critical role in a student’s university experience and are in a position to become aware of a student in distress. This workshop will help you understand the components of this central role: identifying, responding to and referring distressed students. Participants learn to respond effectively to specific types of distressing behaviors to minimize classroom disruption while assisting the student with appropriate resources.

The training includes:

- Helping staff and faculty to proactively identify distress of various types (anxiety, depression, mania, psychosis, alcohol and drug abuse, suicidality, dangerousness to others);
- How to respond to distressing students, and consulting with and referring students to The Counseling Center (Counseling and Psychological Services), the Consultation & Response Team, or CARE: Campus Assault Resources and Education Sexual Assault and Gender Based Violence Prevention

CARE Workshops Available by Request:

- If You Loved Me: Dating and Domestic Violence Workshop;
- Sex and Safety: What You Need to Know
- Blame it on the Alcohol: Sex and the Morning After
- Know Your Power: Self Defense

Build awareness of sexual assault risk factors, strengthen your assertiveness skills to embolden your power, and learn self-defense techniques to help you respond to a variety of situations. This workshop meets the requirement for the UC mandated sexual assault prevention and education training for students that did not attend new student orientation.

WELLNESS PROGRAMS BY REQUEST

The Counseling Center will facilitate Wellness Programs by request for your program or event. Please call 310-825-0768 for more information on how to coordinate with a CAPS Counselor.
