News from the Central Travel Office

Our collaboration at the campus level has given us the opportunity to reach more users who can leverage UC-negotiated deals and benefits NOT found when booking travel outside Connexxus.

In this newsletter you will find important information on airline carriers introducing basic economy fares. These fares offer lowest available pricing but come with certain restrictions. Be sure to visit each airline’s site for detailed information on basic economy tickets.

We are excited to announce a new partnership with Turkish Airlines and Alaska Airlines. We would also like to take this time to announce a renewed agreement with Amtrak (booking link coming soon)!

As a result of your feedback, BCD Travel and Balboa Travel (for UCSD) have integrated a solution into their online booking tools that will show all Southwest fares, allow passing of Rapid Rewards numbers and better tracking of ticket credits. More details can be found under Agency News.

We hope that we can develop our partnership in this positive manner and will make ourselves available to you whenever needed. We look forward to working together with you in the New Year.

Safe travels!

AIRLINES INTRODUCE BASIC ECONOMY FARES

Last year, Delta Airlines introduced a basic economy “no frills” airfare where travelers get the lowest price, but do not get certain perks such as picking a seat or the flexibility to change/cancel their flight. In 2017, both United Airlines and American Airlines will introduce their versions of a basic economy airfare, which are meant to compete directly with discount airlines such as Frontier, Spirit Air and Allegiant.

What do these fares mean to UC travelers?

At its core, these fares are meant to provide pricing options for travelers on a tight budget. However, with no option to pick a seat (even for a fee); travelers will also have to accept assigned seating in what are sometimes the worst seats on a plane. United’s version of these fares will also limit access to overhead bins for carry-on luggage. Travelers will board last and anyone with a bag too big to fit under the seat will be charged $25 to check the bag. Campus rules on whether or not to reimburse these types fees vary.

The online booking tool (Concur) offered by BCD and Balboa Travel have a way of calling out such fares to help guide you if one is selected:

While UC has negotiated rates with Delta, United and American, travelers are still subject to all airline rules and regulations. We will hold a 30-minute webinar to go over these fares Thursday, February 9th 1130AM and we encourage you to register today.

CONNEXXUS WEBINARS

The Central Travel Office continues its efforts to educate and inform UC travelers on the benefits of booking within the systemwide program and scheduled webinars are updated regularly. NO ACCESS TO CONNEXXUS? TRY THIS

The Connexxus portal is accessible only to employees, but the Central Travel Office has a great alternative for students, contractors, emeritus faculty or even alumni!

Short’s Travel and their online tool, FindIt®, allows you to search for flights and/or hotels at websites of your choice. Once you have selected your flight or hotel, FindIt® will apply any available UC rates, provide automatic registration for traveler insurance via UC Risk Services and confirm your travel purchase through Short’s Travel (one of UC’s preferred Connexxus agencies). This option is available for credit card use only (no campus paid airfare).

The 4-step process uses the traveler UC email address to initiate the process, verify UC identity, and access UC-negotiated rates via email inside of 15 minutes.

For FindIt® to work you will need to first download an extension to your browser. This is a one-time step and we strongly recommend Google Chrome.

The full job aid on how to “Install for Chrome” and use FindIt® can be found here.

CONTRACTORS OR STUDENTS LOOKING FOR UNITED AIRFARE DEALS TO CONFERENCES?

The Central Travel Office has negotiated up to 10% discount with United Airlines for travel between January 5 and April 10, 2017 and specific to:

- Orlando, FL;
- Chicago, IL;
- Washington, DC

Full details on these fares can be found here.
