

Guidance for Campuses on Professional Licensure and Certification Disclosure to Students

June 30, 2020

Federal regulations require higher education programs that are intended to meet professional licensure and certification requirements to disclose to students whether the program meets licensure and certification requirements in other states. The regulations, which were enacted on November 1, 2019, can be found at 34 CFR §668.43\(a\)\(5\)\(v\). The compliance deadline is July 1, 2020.

- The disclosure must be both:
 - Publically posted on the program's website and/or catalog; and
 - Individually directed to the student before they enroll.
- The disclosure applies to all modalities of instruction – face-to-face, online, hybrid, or other.

Two types of disclosure

- Public disclosure – The disclosure must be publically posted on the program's website and/or in the program's catalog by July 1, 2020. The Institutional Research and Academic Planning department at UCOP has posted the required disclosure on its website; affected programs can link to the IRAP disclosure in order to meet the compliance deadline. Eventually the campuses and affected programs should develop their own approaches to compliance.
- Individual disclosure - Before a student is enrolled, the program must individually disclose to them whether the institution has or has not determined that the program meets the educational requirements for licensure or certification in the state in which the prospective student is located. Individual disclosure may be undertaken by email or other electronic communication. 34 CFR 668.43\(c\)\(1\) et.seq.

PROGRAMS REQUIRED TO DISCLOSE

In order to determine whether your program is required to disclose under the new regulations you would answer yes to either of the following questions:

- Are practicing professionals in your field of instruction professionally licensed or certified?
- Is professional licensure or certification either mandatory or optional to practice in your field of instruction?

TITLE IV ELIGIBILITY

The regulations link compliance to Title IV eligibility. Taking good faith steps towards compliance in a timely fashion is important to ensure that UC students continue to have access to federal student financial aid.
