California Subject Matter Project
Report to the Legislature

Legislative Request

Prior to 2018, Sections 99200-99206 of the Education Code required the California Subject Matter Project (CSMP) Concurrence Committee to report on certain information related to the California Subject Matter Project (CSMP) to the Governor and to the appropriate policy and fiscal committees of the Legislature. That requirement became inoperative as of January 1, 2018. Sections 99200-99206 were subsequently amended in 2020 by Senate Bill No. 116, Chapter 25, which introduced a new reporting requirement specifically related to the learning loss due to the COVID-19 pandemic; the first such report is due by January 1, 2024. Although the previous reporting requirement is now inoperative, the University, with the approval of the Concurrence Committee, nevertheless submits this report for the period 2016–20. The report provides specific information about CSMP, namely:

- (A) The number, and level of experience, of participants in each subject matter project;
- (B) The total amount of funds expended, on an annual basis, for each subject matter project;
- (C) An explanation of the type of professional development activities offered pursuant to each subject matter project, including the extent to which teachers were provided professional development focused on delivering career-oriented, integrated academic and technical content; and
- (D) A list including the name and location of each school affiliated with a subject matter project.¹

The Concurrence Committee is comprised of individuals affiliated with leadership, management or instruction in education or education policy entities and are selected as follows:

- (1) One representative selected by the Regents of the University of California;
- (2) One representative selected by the Board of Trustees of the California State University;
- (3) One representative selected by the State Board of Education, who has significant experience with direct classroom instruction;
- (4) One representative selected by the Governor;
- (5) One representative selected by the Superintendent of Public Instruction;
- (6) One representative selected by the Commission on Teacher Credentialing;
- (7) One representative selected by the Curriculum Development and Supplemental Materials Commission;²
- (8) One representative of the California Community Colleges selected by the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges; and

² Now known as the “Instructional Quality Commission.”

(9) One representative of an independent postsecondary institution selected by the Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities.³

UCOP Response

The University of California, with the approval of the Concurrence Committee, has statutory responsibility to establish, administer, and maintain a network of professional development projects. These projects are designed to create opportunities for researchers, higher education faculty, and elementary and secondary school faculty to collaboratively identify exemplary teaching practices; examine and develop research on learning, knowledge, and educational materials; and provide professional learning support for teachers to develop and enhance content knowledge and pedagogical skills.

Consistent with the Education Code, which requires a four-year report, the Concurrence Committee has approved this report on the Arts, Global Education, History-Social Science, Mathematics, Physical Education-Health, Reading and Literature, Science, World Language, and Writing projects.⁴ The report covers July 1, 2016 through June 30, 2020 and provides for each subject matter project the experience of participants, funds expended, professional development activities offered, and affiliated schools.

Number and Level of Experience of Participants

From 2016–2020, CSMP served 83,154 distinct participants.⁵ Table 1 provides the number of distinct participants for each subject matter project.

Table 1. CSMP Number of Distinct Participants Served by Project, 2016–2020
Project	Number
Arts	5,088
Global Education	3,986
History-Social Science	13,792

³ California Education Code, Section 99200 (d).

⁴ In the authorizing legislation, Global Education was previously known as “The World History and International Studies Project.”

⁵ The figures in Table 1 total to 88,744 because some individuals participated in programs conducted by more than one of the nine projects.

Overall, the projects served teachers at all stages of their careers, from novice teachers with one to five years of experience (16% of total participants) to veteran teachers with 15 or more years of experience (53%).⁶

⁶ Participant experience rates are largely due to CSMP's focus on developing teacher leadership as well as to budget cuts in recent years, which disproportionately decreased the number of novice teachers.

Additionally, a major focus of the subject matter projects is to foster the development of teacher leaders. Teacher leaders are individuals who are skilled in a discipline with requisite pedagogical skills and who share their expertise with other teachers at all levels of experience through CSMP professional development programs.

Funds Expended

There is one statewide office and multiple sites for each of the subject areas. Table 2 shows, by subject area, a four-year summary of expenditures of State funds provided through annual Budget Acts and federal No Child Left Behind (NCLB) or Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) funds.⁷ Expenditures covered program and operational costs. The number of sites per subject area varied from 4 to 19, and this is the primary reason for funding allocation differences across the projects.

Professional Development Activities Offered

Through high-quality, long-term professional development activities, CSMP demonstrates an ongoing commitment to deepening teacher content knowledge, improving teachers' pedagogical skills in the content areas, and developing teacher leaders across the state. Dedicated to its mission of serving the state's neediest schools, CSMP focuses on improving the teaching of English learners and low-literacy students. CSMP also develops networks of teacher-learning communities that investigate current research relevant to teachers' subject areas.

⁷ This information does not include other funding that sites may receive from district contracts or other one-time sources.

In accordance with the California Education Code, Section 99200 (a), each subject matter project aims to:

- (1) Develop and enhance teachers' subject matter and content knowledge in the subject matter areas specified in Education Code Section 99201.
- (2) Develop and enhance teachers' instructional strategies to improve pupil learning and academic performance as measured against State Board of Education standards adopted pursuant to Education Code Section 60605 and 60605.8 and, where applicable, to standards adopted pursuant to Section 60811 and any subsequently adopted standards.
- (3) Provide teachers with instructional strategies for working with English learners.
- (4) Provide teachers with instructional strategies for delivering career-oriented, integrated academic and technical content in a manner that is linked to high-priority industry sectors identified in the California Career Technical Education model curriculum standards as adopted by the State Board of Education. The Concurrence Committee, in consultation with the appropriate state entities, industry leaders, representatives of organized labor, educators and other parties, shall determine the priority of industry sectors.
- (5) Provide teachers with access to and opportunity to examine current research that is demonstrably linked to improved pupil learning and achievement as measured by performance levels on state tests administered pursuant to Section 60605, or any successor assessment system, or on English language development assessments developed, pursuant to Chapter 7 (commencing with Section 60810) of Part 33 of Division 4 of Title 2, or any successor assessments, for English language learners.
- (6) Maintain subject-specific professional communities that create and encourage ongoing opportunities for teacher collaboration, learning and research.
- (7) Develop and deploy teachers with demonstrated levels of expertise in the classroom and certifiable levels of content knowledge as teacher leaders.
- (8) Provide teachers with instructional strategies for ongoing collaboration on the delivery of career-oriented, integrated academic and technical content ⁸.

The rest of this section provides a brief description for each of the subject matter projects. Descriptions contain key project components as well as examples of professional development programs developed by each project. Please note that CSMP programs are aligned with state-adopted standards and frameworks, including the Common Core State Standards (CCSS), English Language Development (ELD) standards, Next Generation Science Standards (NGSS),

⁸ SB 116 (Statutes of 2020, Chapter 25) amended Education Code Section 99200 (a) to address learning loss due to the COVID-19 pandemic in mathematics, science, writing, and reading and literature projects; this report is due by January 1, 2024.

Career Technical Education (CTE) standards, state content standards and frameworks, and other professional standards.

The California Arts Project (TCAP) is a statewide collaborative professional learning network of single-subject, multiple-subject, and career technical education educators from preschool through university in dance, media arts, music, theater and visual arts. An education in the arts equips students with the aptitudes, technical skills, and knowledge needed for innovation, creative thinking, problem solving, and the expansion of the human experience — thereby preparing them for life, educational and career pursuits, particularly for careers in the arts, media, and entertainment. Since these capacities are essential and valuable for all students in life no matter their vocation, TCAP's central mission is to improve efficacy and equity in the teaching and learning of the arts. Though the professional learning format and specific content can vary, TCAP programs and activities have the following common elements:

- Attending to equity in arts learning for all students;
- Contextualizing the professional learning to the needs of the students, educators, and community;
- Increasing educators' academic content knowledge and pedagogical skills by examining theory, research, and practice and through authentic engagement in the disciplines;
- Focusing on the development of artistic and academic literacy within the arts for all learners;
- Strengthening educators' knowledge of and capacities in designing intentional and accessible standards-based instruction aligned to the California Arts Standards;
- Linking university and Transitional Kindergarten (TK)–12 educators within communities of practice in collaborative endeavors such as examining current practice, designing comprehensive equitable and culturally relevant arts curricula, partnering on educational research, and improving assessment practices;
- Supporting educators' abilities in preparing students for college, career, and lifelong creative pursuits; and
- Enhancing the professional role of classroom educators by equipping them for leadership in their schools, districts, communities and/or regional arts projects.

All TCAP programs are aligned with and support educators' understanding of the California Arts Standards, California Arts Education Framework, California English Language Development Standards, Literacy in the Technical Subjects, and, when appropriate, the CTE Model Curriculum Standards for Arts, Media, and Entertainment.

Examples of programs include: Artful Inquiry Institute; Creating Curricular Congruency; California Arts Standards Workshops; Collaborative Design Institute; Developing Artistic Literacy (Dance, Media Arts, Music, Theatre, and Visual Arts); Pathways to Understanding the Arts Disciplines; TCAP Leadership Practicums.

The California History-Social Science Project (CHSSP) is a K–16 collaborative of historians, teachers, and affiliated scholars dedicated to the pursuit of educational excellence in history and social science. Though the format of professional development activities offered and specific content can vary, each CHSSP program has the following common elements:

- Scholars, teacher educators, and experienced teacher leaders facilitate discussions to increase teachers' content knowledge and engage teachers in investigating significant questions and debates in history, geography, government, or economics.
- Scholars and CHSSP teacher leaders address pedagogy by providing lesson models, guiding teachers through discipline-specific thinking and inquiry, and leading group discussions and exercises.
- Teachers apply what they have learned by creating lessons that are aligned with California's History-Social Science Framework and designed to improve student literacy and engage them in historical thinking and inquiry.

Examples of programs include: Building Student Media Literacy for Civic Engagement, Assessing Student Learning, Environmental Literacy in History-Social Science, Teaching the FAIR Act, Grade (level) Groups, Teaching World History, Teaching US History and Teaching Ethnic Studies.

The California Global Education Project (CGEP) leaders provide standards-based professional learning in global competence, geography and cultural and environmental literacy, as well as interdisciplinary studies. CGEP programs aim to prepare students to be informed and active global citizens who live and work in a world where conditions, people and issues are often interconnected across time and place. Though the format and specific content can vary, CGEP programs have common elements:

- Participants develop insight into the connections among peoples, environments, ideas and events, and learn to view global issues from a range of perspectives while using inquiry and analytic skills with a variety of information sources.
- University and K–12 facilitators model effective instructional strategies and dispositions that help students develop academic language, curiosity and analytic skills, along with content knowledge.
- Participants develop an understanding of the richness and diversity that exists in local and global communities while developing empathy and other global competence skills that promote equity and social justice.

Examples of programs include: Teaching for Sustainable Communities; Global Book Bags; Intercultural Ambassadors; Teaching with Sustainable Development Goals, Global Dialogue and Virtual Exchange; Digital Storytelling with a Cultural Lens; Engaging All Learners for the 21st Century; New Teacher Institute: Getting to the Heart of Teaching.

The California Mathematics Project (CMP) offers a variety of mathematics programs that are designed specifically to meet the needs of teachers, schools, and/or districts and are aligned with the California Mathematics Framework and Standards. CMP sponsors intensive professional development institutes, academic-year programs, academic-year support, and other programs that support the growth of mathematics educators. The content and focus of these programs are designed in collaboration with schools, districts, and teachers in response to identified needs. Programs target specific teacher groups such as new teachers, teachers from hard-to-staff schools, teachers in urban or rural settings, teachers in a specific grade span, and teachers seeking certification. Though the format and specific content can vary, CMP programs have the following common elements:

- Strategies to improve teaching of high-level, cognitively demanding mathematics;
- Increasing student agency, identity, and ownership in mathematics;
- Strategies for working with students who have not been successful in mathematics;
- Culturally relevant and responsive teaching for all students;
- Support for developing teacher leadership and collaboration; and
- Using technology to enhance instruction.

CMP programs cover all of the standards for mathematical practice: (1) make sense of problems and persevere in solving them; (2) reason abstractly and quantitatively; (3) construct viable arguments and critique the reasoning of others; (4) model with mathematics; (5) use appropriate tools strategically; (6) attend to precision; (7) look for and make use of structure; and (8) look for express regularity in repeated reasoning. CMP programs are committed to supporting teachers whether they are teaching face-to-face or virtually.

Examples of programs include: The California Mathematics Readiness Challenge Initiative (CMRCI), which developed and implemented alternative senior-level, college-preparatory mathematics courses, and the California Action Network for Mathematics Excellence and Equity (CANMEE), which uses lesson study to continuously improve mathematics learning, instruction, and the lesson-study process by ensuring that mathematics education is rigorous, high-quality, accessible, and equitable for all students.

The California Physical Education-Health Project (CPE-HP) equips teachers of physical education and health education with deeper content knowledge, advancement of their teaching practices and the dispositions and skills for teacher leadership. Each of CPE-HP's professional learning programs enhances teachers' capacity to deliver high-quality, standards-based instruction.

CPE-HP is dedicated to the students of California and to the teachers and school leaders who influence their learning in physical education and health education. The following goals are at the core of each CPE-HP program:

- Providing high-quality physical education and health education instruction for all students;
- Supporting teachers in using the California Content Standards for Physical Education and Health Education and the framework for each discipline;
- Using learners' reading, writing, speaking, and listening skills as assets to enrich the learning of physical education and the health education content;
- Equity and access for underserved students in high-priority schools, including English learners;
- Cultivation and expansion of partnerships with families and communities; and
- Teacher leadership opportunities that include research-based best practice

Examples of programs include: Integration of the ELA Standards into Physical Education; Shifting Instruction to Blended and Online Environments; Building Cutting-Edge Physical Education Instructional Programs; New Teacher Academy; Bullying Prevention Summits; Physical Education Department Chairs Academy; Health Education Framework Programs

The California Reading and Literature Project (CRLP) programs include TK–12 “signature” programs that are offered at all sites, as well as locally designed programs that are developed to accommodate the unique needs of a particular region. These programs are offered throughout the academic year. Though the format and specific content can vary, CRLP programs have common elements:

- Develop teachers' content knowledge and expand their teaching strategies to support the implementation of CCSS and ELD standards.
- Expand awareness of CA's policy and guidance documents like the Quality Standards for Professional Learning (QPLS), ELA/ELD Framework, EL Roadmap, Dyslexia Guidelines, Preschool Foundations, and CA Practitioners Guide for Educating English Learners with Disabilities.
- Focus on the development of academic language for all students, particularly for English language learners.
- Link universities with schools and districts in collaborative partnerships to create a cadre of expert teacher leaders and university scholars who can help translate educational policies into sound classroom practices.
- Engage teacher leaders and school administrators in the investigation of critical questions of practice through action research.

Examples of programs include: Results Word Recognition and Fluency: Assessment, Instruction and Intervention; Results Academic Language and Literacy Instruction; Spanish-to-English Transferability; and Content Area Language and Literacy for Academic Success in Middle and High School.

The California Science Project (CSP) provides high-quality, standards-based professional development in science to ensure that every student achieves the highest standards of academic performance. Though the format and specific content can vary, CSP programs have common elements:

- Academic faculty focus on phenomena-driven, inquiry-based activities centered around specific content topics in sciences — earth, biological or physical — or engineering to strengthen teachers' content knowledge, develop a deep conceptual understanding, and increase awareness of new content and expectations.
- University and K–12 facilitators model effective instructional strategies aligned with the CA NGSS standards and frameworks to demonstrate learning through scientific sense-making and through development of academic language and literacy.
- Teachers become more effective educators by collaboratively planning for instruction in their own classroom while incorporating new pedagogy and new scientific content.

Examples of programs include: Scientific sense-making during distance-learning programs (with a focus on research-based pedagogical practices to effectively engage students and equitably provide them access to science learning through online/asynchronous/hybrid models); Literacy in the Science Classroom programs (with a focus on scientific note-taking, text-based science materials, oral argumentation, and development of claims based on evidence through writing and other forms of scientific communication); English Learners in the Science Classroom programs (with a focus on multiple approaches and strategies that help science teachers differentiate instruction for English learners).

The mission of the California World Language Project (CWLP) is to develop multiliteracy and intercultural and global competency in each and every student in order to create an equitable and inclusive society based on mutual respect and cooperation. CWLP sponsors professional learning programs aligned with the World Languages Standards for California Public Schools: Kindergarten Through Grade Twelve (adopted by the State Board of Education in 2019), the World Languages Framework (adopted by the State Board of Education in 2020), the California English Language Development Standards and the English Learner Roadmap.

Learners bring many strengths, talents, abilities and perspectives to language learning. These unique assets include home language and culture, personal values, and the ability to navigate situations based on lived experiences. Focusing on the assets that students bring from home into schools fosters an environment where students feel valued, respected, and encouraged to rise up to their potential. Reaching one's potential as informed, productive, active, and emotionally intelligent global citizens with high levels of multiliteracies is an attainable goal for each and every student.

Effective teachers have the largest impact on student growth. CWLP programs support educators' content knowledge and pedagogical skills in order to engage students in authentic language- and culture-learning experiences. Through ongoing and sustained professional learning programs, both synchronous and asynchronous — virtual during the pandemic and socially-distanced once safe — participants design and implement standards-based instruction that enables students to become resilient global citizens who have the knowledge, skills and dispositions to investigate the world, recognize perspectives, communicate ideas, and take action.

All CWLP programs are aligned with California standards, and each program shares the following goals:

- Providing access to world language programs and equitable learning practices, wherein each and every student has the opportunity to learn another language and culture, in addition to English;
- Valuing and strengthening students' heritage languages and cultures while supporting them to remain linguistically and culturally connected to their families and communities;
- Expanding language programs across all segments of California's education system to enable learners to attain higher levels of linguistic proficiency and global competency in order to attain their academic and career goals; and
- Involving language and culture educators in professional learning communities that promote leadership, high-quality instruction, and respect for diverse ideas.

Examples of programs include: Foundation programs that focus on strengthening teachers' content knowledge and skills in standards-based instruction, second-language acquisition theory and high-leverage teaching practices; leadership development programs that continue to strengthen the content knowledge and skills of teachers and that incorporate current research in the field, adult learning theory, and leadership skills; and integrative leadership team programs that enhance the leadership skills of participants while assisting them in acquiring the observation and coaching skills required to successfully mentor and support colleagues.

The California Writing Project (CWP) is a statewide professional development network that serves teachers of writing at all grade levels, preschool through university, and in all subjects. Because writing is the key to success in the school and university, as well as in the community and workplace, CWP has a central mission — to improve student writing and learning by improving the teaching of writing. Though the format and specific content can vary, CWP programs have common elements:

- Improving student writing and literacy outcomes by strengthening teachers' practices;
- Unpacking state standards and frameworks for content, teaching, and assessment understanding;
- Connecting the ELD standards and roadmap to support access, rigor, and differentiation for English language learners;

- Increasing teachers' knowledge about the teaching of writing by providing frequent and sustained opportunities for teachers to write and to systematically examine theory, research, and practice;
- Increasing teachers' knowledge of formative and summative writing assessments to inform their instruction and to identify the different levels of support that their students require;
- Linking university and K–12 educators in informed communities of practice to design and develop comprehensive writing programs and to partner in educational research, assessment, implementation, and reform;
- Enhancing the professional role of classroom teachers and equipping them for leadership in their schools, districts, communities, or local writing projects;
- Partnering with schools, districts, county offices of education, and other education-related organizations;
- Using local knowledge and context to serve the needs of all students; and
- Developing strong foundational knowledge that allows teachers to navigate changing environments.

Examples of programs include: New Teachers Writing Collaborative, Race Matters Study Group, Recognizing and Combating Anti-Blackness, Inquiry into Teaching for Environmental Justice, #MakerMondays@SCWriP, Supporting Students' and Teachers' Social and Emotional Health through Writing, Online Writing Instruction for Every Grade.

Professional Development Program Outcomes

CSMP gives educators a variety of professional learning opportunities designed by K–12 teachers and university faculty, including workshops, leadership institutes, and in-service programs. With the adoption of new standards and assessments, CSMP provides ongoing support to educators as they build on their content knowledge and offers instructional strategies to help students meet these rigorous academic standards. Expert site directors, teacher leaders, and other professional development providers facilitate the school-level transition to new standards and assessments, as well as the instructional strategies that teachers must use to address them.

CSMP is lauded as a model for other states throughout the nation “as a means of supporting ongoing professional development in the content areas for growing networks of teachers” (Task Force on Educator Excellence, 2012, p. 9). Participants consistently rate CSMP professional development more highly than other professional development they have received, and the project’s investment in intensive and in-depth contact with teachers over time has resulted in changes in teacher practice and improvements to student outcomes in a deep and sustained way (SRI, 2013, 2012, 2011a, 2011b, 2009). Other research (Yoon, et al., 2007) also confirms that this type of professional development has a positive impact on student achievement.

CSMP participants improve and enrich their teaching of specific subjects through long-term, intensive professional development (defined as 14 hours or more), that has been shown to have the greatest impact on student achievement (Yoon, et al., 2007). From 2016–2020, CSMP provided a total of 64,360 contact hours through 4,452 professional development programs. Table 3 includes, by subject matter project, professional development program contact hours, number of programs offered, and average number of hours per program,.

CSMP Information System, 2020

In a CSMP-conducted participant survey (Figure 2) administered in 2017, 80% of respondents rated the quality of CSMP professional development as being “significantly better” (52%) or “somewhat better” (28%) than other professional development activities in which they had participated. In addition, 93% of respondents indicated that CSMP had a positive impact on their teaching.⁹

⁹ CSMP Participant Survey.

CSMP Participant Survey, 2017

This data further confirmed the results of a teacher survey conducted by SRI International in 2010: teachers reported that their participation in CSMP increased their content knowledge (92%), provided them with new standards-based instructional ideas (89%), and improved their ability to teach to a diverse range of students (75%). In addition, participants reported that CSMP professional development would help to improve their students' learning (87%), deepen students' engagement (87%), increase the participation of low-achieving students (80%) and contribute to improved outcomes for English language learners (72%).¹⁰

Affiliated Schools

From 2016–2020, CSMP served teachers from 5,899 unique K–12 schools. The service regions extended as far north as Del Norte County and as far south as Imperial County and served teachers in virtually all 58 California counties. The top ten counties with the most schools served were Los Angeles, San Diego, Orange, Sacramento, San Bernardino, Riverside, Alameda, Kern, Santa Clara and Contra Costa, in that order. Table 4 provides the number of schools served by the top ten counties with the most schools served.

¹⁰ Percentages represent a composite measure of “Moderate extent” and “Great extent,” the two highest measures on a four-point Likert scale used to assess respondents’ attitudes.
